Time: Protesters Crash Trump Hotel Campaign Fundraiser

By Jack Brewster
June 28, 2017

ATF helped to organize this protest.

Kelly Cuvar has been fighting cancer for the past 18 years. But the more time-consuming battle, she says, is not fighting her condition, but keeping her health insurance. "I can't believe I have to fight for this again," Cuvar said.

Cuvar was among the throng of people that stood outside the Trump International Hotel Wednesday afternoon to protest the proposed Senate health care bill and the $35,000 to $100,000-a-ticket fundraiser for President Donald Trump's re-election campaign that was going on inside.

Associated Press: The Latest: Trump arrives at fundraiser, met by protesters

June 28, 2017

President Donald Trump has arrived at a fundraiser benefiting his 2020 re-election campaign, the Republican National Committee and other various Republican entities.

Trump's motorcade pulled up at his Trump hotel in Washington just after 7 p.m.

He was greeted by dozens of protesters outside hoisting signs with slogans like "Health care not tax cuts" and chanting "Shame! Shame!"

By Max Greenwood
June 28, 2017

President Trump was greeted by protests and jeers on Wednesday evening as he arrived at Trump International Hotel in Washington, D.C., for his first reelection fundraiser.

As the presidential motorcade pulled up to the hotel — just blocks away from the White House — demonstrators booed and waved signs, some assailing Republican efforts to overhaul the country's healthcare system and others taking aim at the Trump administration's environmental policies.

Common Dreams: Big Pharma Gets $28 Billion Tax Break in GOP Trumpcare Plan

By Will Rice
June 21, 2017

There will be a lot of losers if the House GOP's disastrous plan to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act ever becomes law: people with preexisting medical conditions, working families, older folks, kids.

One of the few winners would be the nation's pharmaceutical industry: $28 billion richer thanks to a big tax cut. The Senate is likely to keep this tax break in its version of the legislation.

"Middle-class Americans will see their basic standards of living reduced by Ryan's plans, just so that the rich and huge corporations can get a giant tax cut."

At a recent press conference at the U.S. Capitol, Marta Conner told reporters, "My daughter Caroline is alive because of Medicaid." Caroline suffers from Rett Syndrome, a rare, debilitating neurodevelopmental disease that prevents her from using her hands, talking, and walking.

Marta says that Caroline has roughly 90 seizures a year and relies on 10 medications. Without her medication, Caroline would have seizures every day. Caroline's care requires hospital-grade equipment including a cough assist machine, a nebulizer, oxygen supplies, and help from nurses. Marta relies on Medicaid to pay for the substantial costs that her insurance doesn't cover.

U.S. News: Can Lower Business Taxes Trickle Down to the Middle Class?

By Andrew Soergel
June 9, 2017

Brill faced pushback, though, from both Sahadi – who said in her opening remarks that she "firmly [doesn't] think my company's going to give me higher wages if their taxes are cut" – and Frank Clemente, the executive director of the more liberal Americans for Tax Fairness advocacy group. Clemente argued that "big, wealthy corporations ought to be paying quite a bit more in taxes than they are now" and that the benefits of corporate tax cuts wouldn't trickle down to workers and would instead be enjoyed by those at the top.

Clemente argued that "big, wealthy corporations ought to be paying quite a bit more in taxes than they are now" and that the benefits of corporate tax cuts wouldn't trickle down to workers and would instead be enjoyed by those at the top.

"The vast majority of the taxes being paid by corporations are being attributed to the owners of those corporations," Clemente said.

The National Memo: GOP Obamacare Repeal Would Kick 23 Million Off Health Insurance And Give Trillion-Dollar Tax Cut To People Who Don't Need It

By Steven Rosenfield
May 26, 2017

“The CBO tells us that at least 23 million people will lose health coverage under the Trump-Republican health plan, including 14 million by next year—most due to $830 billion in Medicaid cuts. On top of that, the president’s budget proposes cutting ANOTHER $600 billion dollars from Medicaid, and it slashes Social Security Disability Insurance,” said Frank Clemente, executive director, Americans for Tax Fairness. “So between Trump’s health care bill and his budget, Trump is breaking three core promises he made to his supporters over and over again: that he wouldn’t cut Medicaid, that he wouldn’t cut Social Security, and no one would lose their health insurance. Why? So that millionaires, billionaires and corporations can get giant tax cuts.”

While the letter sheds some additional light on the content of Trump's returns, it appears unlikely to end speculation by Trump's critics about whether his returns conceal suspicious business ties to foreign entities, including Russia.

Americans for Tax Fairness Executive Director Frank Clemente told Tax Analysts in a statement that the letter "is about as transparent as Trump has been with his tax returns" and a "distraction" from the ways Trump may have structured his businesses. "Trump may well be using his cloaked Delaware businesses or other shadow businesses he may have registered in tax havens around the world to maintain extensive financial relationships with Russian oligarchs," Clemente said, insisting the letter does not "substitute for the public's right to see Trump's taxes."

Alternet: The GOP's Latest Health Care Replacement Bill Is Even More Heartless Than First Thought

By Steven Rosenfield

An economic analysis by Americans for Tax Fairness and Healthcare for America Now, both progressive coalitions, broke down how the Obamacare repeal bill was a massive giveaway to the wealthy, insurers and the drug industry at the expense of people who are now covered or will see premiums skyrocket.

"The GOP plan will deprive 24 million Americans of healthcare coverage and drive up the cost of coverage for millions more, especially older people and people in rural America. At the same time, it will create tax breaks worth about $600 billion that will mostly go to health insurance companies, prescription drug manufacturers and the wealthy,” the summary said. It gave the following breakdown.

Investico Weekly Market Review: Can Trump’s tax plan stimulate the economy?

By Kristina Harper
May 2, 2017

Keep in mind that this is just a brief outline of a tax plan. It was a set of bullet points on one page, suggesting that it is just a starting point for what is likely to be heavy negotiations. That makes sense given that a number of organizations — including Americans for Tax Fairness, the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget, the Urban-Brookings Tax Policy Center, and the conservative Tax Foundation — all project that this tax plan could result in a loss of approximately $5 trillion to $6 trillion — or higher — in tax revenue over the next decade. This of course would come at a time when our national debt is high and many conservative politicians are focused on reducing the deficit.

"Corporations are already dodging their fair share of taxes at a time of record profits, yet he is trying to give them a massive tax cut," said Frank Clemente, executive director of the liberal Americans for Tax Fairness.

Big winners: pass-through businesses. The point here is to allow small businesses, as well as professional organizations like medical practices, to get the same treatment as corporations -- with the result being more consumer spending and more jobs. After all, small businesses account for the bulk of job creation. To the president's critics, his plan is a large conflict of interest. Huffington Post: Op-ed: Top 3 Reasons Trump Must Release His Tax Returns

By Frank Clemente, Americans for Tax Fairness

April 10, 2017

President Trump claims ordinary people “don’t care at all” that he’s the first chief executive in more than 40 years not to release his tax returns. But a January Washington Post-ABC News poll found three quarters (74%) of Americans say Trump should release his tax returns. That includes a majority (53%) of Republicans.

A White House petition demanding Trump release his tax returns broke a record for signatures within six days of being posted. It has since collected more than one million signatures.

This broad-based public demand makes sense. There are at least three important questions that can only be answered by the release of President Trump’s tax returns.

Common Dreams: April 15: National Protests on Tax Day Demand Trump Release His Tax Returns

By National Working Families Party

April 10, 2017

Today, the National Working Families Party announced their participation in the Tax Day March. President Trump’s financial ties to Russia are causing growing questions for both Democrats and Republicans. As a result, thousands of people plan to gather in Washington, D.C., on Saturday, April 15, 2017, at 11 a.m. The Tax March was an idea that started on Twitter, but has gained momentum on and offline, with over 135 marches planned in cities across the country. A full list of Tax Day marches can be found here: <http://taxmarch.org/>.

WFP will join Americans for Tax Fairness, American Federation of Teachers, Center for Popular Democracy, Indivisible Project, MoveOn.org, Our Revolution, Philadelphia Jobs with Justice, and nearly 50 other organizations to organize the April 15 events.

USA Today: The Walmart Tax Every American Taxpayer Pays (Column)

By Lonnie Shephard
April 8, 2017

According to a 2014 report by Americans for Tax Fairness, Walmart receives an estimated $6.2 billion in subsidies every year, primarily from the Federal Government.

The reason? The world's largest retailer, infamous for its poor working conditions and unfair treatment of employees, pays its workers so little that thousands of Walmart employees are forced to rely on public assistance programs like food stamps, Medicaid and subsidized housing. Programs funded by American taxpayers.

Voice of America: Ending Tax Avoidance An Alternative to Federal Funding Cuts

By Cecily Hilleary
March 16, 2017

President Donald Trump's blueprint budget calls for a dramatic increase in defense and homeland security spending, offset by deep cuts to foreign aid and federal agencies like the Environmental Protection Agency.

But could there be another way to build up the military without taking money away from other valuable programs? Americans for Tax Fairness (ATF) thinks so.

"American multinational corporations owe $700 billion in U.S. taxes on profits they are holding offshore - much of it earned in the United States," said ATF spokesman Ron Eckstein. "Before cutting spending on important services that affect people's lives, President Trump should make these giant corporate tax dodgers pay what they owe."

Common Dreams: Group Slams Report of GOP Health Plan to Tax Workers While Rich Get Richer

By Nadia Prupis

March 6, 2017

Americans for Tax Fairness (ATF)—a coalition of hundreds of organizations including the AFL-CIO, the Leadership Conference on Human and Civil Rights, Main Street Alliance, National Council of La Raza, SEIU, and the Working Families Party—issued the statement in response to reporting last Thursday that the repeal plan would impose $200 billion in new taxes on middle-class workers by taxing their health benefits for the first time ever.

"House Republicans want to tax workers' healthcare benefits rather than continue to require the wealthiest Americans and big healthcare corporations to help finance health care for 20 million people now getting covered under the ACA. If true, the GOP healthcare repeal plan means the rich will get richer, millions will lose their healthcare, and workers will pick up the tab," said ATF executive director Frank Clemente.

Obviously, Russian interference in the election merits investigation. Prior collusion would constitute possible grounds for impeachment. Secret financial dealings or perverse stunts in Russia that could compromise the president need to be exposed.

Leftopia: Trump's Infrastructure "Plan" is Another Tax Giveaway for the Rich

January 28, 2017

Americans for Tax Fairness contrasts the Democrats' plan with Trump's, in ATF Applauds Senate Democrats' Infrastructure Plan Funded by Closing Tax Loopholes,

"This ambitious and doable plan by Senate Democrats stands in sharp contrast to the phony infrastructure proposal put forward by President Trump. That plan is a massive tax giveaway to Wall Street investors. It is not a serious plan to repair our crumbling infrastructure.

"Trump wants to give big tax credits to Wall Street investors to encourage them to build infrastructure projects that generate a steady stream of toll or other user-fee revenue. Charging expensive tolls and user fees to earn big profits for Wall Street investors just hurts the pocketbooks of average taxpayers. It also ensures projects will be developed where they can generate the most profits for investors, not where they are most needed.

“It would be less expensive for all taxpayers if corporations and the wealthy were made to pay their fair share of taxes, with the revenue paying for direct investment in new roads, bridges and water systems, as Senate Democrats have proposed.”

Common Dreams: Trump's Proposed Treasury Secretary Could Get $3.3 Million Tax Cut Annually from Trump Tax Plan

January 19, 2017

Americans for Tax Fairness estimates that Steven T. Mnuchin, President-elect Donald Trump's nominee for U.S. Treasury Secretary, could slash his personal tax bill by up to roughly $3.3 million a year should Trump's tax plan become law. He would save similar amounts if House Speaker Paul Ryan's tax plan were enacted. Republican plans to repeal the Affordable Care Act (Obamacare) threaten the health care of 30 million Americans and would erode some rare progress made recently to reverse America's growing economic inequality.

By taxing rich households and big corporations to subsidize health care for working families, the ACA does what good public policy should: level the playing field to give everyone a shot, not just those at the top. Abolishing the ACA would only further tilt the field in favor of the wealthy and well-connected.

What is debated often is how much this money should be taxed, or if it should be taxed, here in the United States. Whether you call this tax avoidance or you consider it good business may depend on your politics or your position in the business world. The numbers that a report from the U.S. Public Interest Research Group show are massive, showing that just 58 of the Fortune 500 companies would owe $212 billion in additional federal taxes if profits were not officially booked offshore.

Wal-Mart, with the report citing Americans for Tax Fairness, is shown to operate as many as 75 tax haven subsidiaries. Its offshore profit has grown from $8.7 billion in 2006 to $26.1 billion in 2015.

Tax Notes: Leaked Tax Returns Raise Questions About Trump's Tax Rate, NOLs

By Jonathan Curry
October 4, 2016

Three pages of Donald Trump's state tax returns from 1995 obtained and released by The New York Times reveal he reported a $916 million loss for his federal adjusted gross income, leading to speculation about the Republican presidential nominee's real estate dealings and the possibility that he could have used net operating losses to significantly reduce or eliminate his income tax liability in many subsequent years.

Frank Clemente of Americans for Tax Fairness also acknowledged that Trump might have a reasonable reason for claiming the losses and that the "fundamental fault" for enabling wealthy individuals to avoid paying income taxes ultimately lies with Congress. But while Trump "claims that he's the guy to fix the loophole-ridden tax code we have . . . his tax plan would do nothing to erase the loopholes that he's taken advantage of," Clemente said.

Washington Post: Want your presidential candidates to release their taxes? There's a bill for that.

By Amber Phillips
October 3, 2016

Until now, there's never really been a need for a law to require presidential candidates to release their tax returns: For the past four decades, every president and/or major party nominee has released their returns on his or her own. It's traditional. It's expected.

Congress passed the law requiring personal financial disclosures in 1978, after the Watergate scandal. And it was the last major piece of legislation dealing with presidential candidates' personal finances, according to Americans for Tax Fairness, which supports Wyden's bill.

Huffington Post: Op-ed: 5 Tax Questions We Need Answered In Tonight’s Presidential Debate

By Frank Clemente
September 26, 2016

One of the biggest divides between Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump is over taxes. It’s not limited to Trump’s refusal — in defiance of 40 years of bipartisan practice — to release any of his own tax returns while she’s released her tax returns since 1977.

There are $7.5 trillion worth of sharp policy distinctions between them as well. Clinton’s tax plan would raise an additional $1.7 trillion over the next 10 years from the wealthy and big corporations, money that would be used to make new investments to create an economy that works for all. Trump’s tax plan would lose nearly $6 trillion; most of the tax breaks he proposes would benefit the wealthy and big corporations.

CBS News: U.S. corporations earn record high profits, pay record low taxes

By Jonathan Berr
September 21, 2016

The Economic Policy Institute (EPI) and Americans for Tax Fairness argue that U.S. corporate profits are at record highs while business tax revenue as a share of GDP is at record lows. Businesses can take advantage of loopholes to lower their bills to Uncle Sam, including one that enables them to indefinitely postpone the payment of taxes on profits earned overseas. The think tanks estimate that this strategy costs the U.S. Treasury about $126 billion a year in lost revenue.

“The facts show that corporate America is not overtaxed and, in fact, goes to extraordinary lengths to avoid paying what they owe,” said Frank Clemente, executive director of Americans for Tax Fairness, in a news release. “We hope this book of data can help change the false narrative on taxes peddled by wealthy corporations and their allies in Washington.”

According to Americans for Tax Fairness, after an exhaustive investigation, the European Commission found that Ireland's tax arrangements with Apple are illegal, amounting to "state aid", and that through various forms of tax avoidance, Apple owes back taxes to Ireland of up to $14.5 billion on its European profits.

Tax Justice Network: Report: new data disproves US corporations' false narrative on taxes

September 20, 2016

From Americans for Tax Fairness, a major new report about corporate taxes in the United States. It's called Corporate Tax Chartbook: How Corporations Rig the Rules to Dodge the Taxes They Owe, and it contains many useful facts, such as this:

Corporate profits are way up, and corporate taxes are way down. In 1952, corporate profits were 5.5 percent of the economy, and corporate taxes were 5.9 percent. Today, corporate profits are 8.5 percent of the economy, and corporate taxes are just 1.9 percent of GDP.

The Huffington Post: Trump's Child Care Proposal Is Bad And Unfunded

By Ethan Rome
September 14, 2016

The list of problems with Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump's latest child care proposal is long. It caters to the rich, does little to help working families, does nothing to help the poorest parents, and includes an ill-conceived maternity leave scheme that actually hurts women who work outside the home.

U.S. multinational corporations have $2.4 trillion in profits offshore on which they owe $700 billion in U.S. taxes if taxed at the 35% rate, less foreign taxes paid. That's nearly as much as the federal government spent for economic recovery after the Great Recession.

According to Americans for Tax Fairness, The $2.4 trillion held offshore is highly concentrated among a small number of huge U.S. multinational corporations. Nearly 40% of the profits belong to just 10 companies. And just 50 companies hold 77% of those offshore profits. Why should the largest and most profitable U.S. corporations get a massive tax break they don't need or deserve?

Fierce Pharma: Gilead greed protests continue at AIDS conference in wake of tax-cutting report

By Carly Helfand
July 20, 2016

Gilead may have won the patent manipulation suit thrown its way earlier this year by the AIDS Healthcare Foundation. But outrage over its pricing practices and IP tactics have hardly died down. Protestors took to the 21st International AIDS Conference in South Africa with chants of “Gilead kills” and “shame shame,” local news service BDlive reports. And this time, they had some new ammo, thanks to a report by Americans for Tax Fairness published last week. According to the group, the Big Biotech dodged $9.7 billion in U.S. taxes by shifting intellectual assets to Ireland—even as it raked in billions from sales of high-priced meds, including $84,000-per-treatment-course Sovaldi for hep C.

Newser: The Drug Costs $95K. Its Maker 'Dodged' $10B in Taxes

By Luke Roney
July 17, 2016

A pharmaceutical company that has in recent years made billions of dollars on hepatitis C treatments—the three the FDA has approved range from $75,000 to $94,500—has been named a “price gouger” and “tax dodger” in a new report. Gilead Sciences, the sixth richest drugmaker in the world, “is making a fortune selling essential drugs to the very government and taxpayers that helped pay to develop them, and then dodging taxes on the resulting profits,” says Frank Clemente, executive director of Americans for Tax Fairness, which issued the report this month. Gilead has avoided some $10 billion in taxes by moving assets to Ireland, where there is a lower tax rate, and then not bringing some $28.5 billion in profits back into the US. Per the Washington Post, the California-based company's revenues in 2015 hit $32.6 billion, up three times from 2012.

Bloomberg: Gilead Seen Cutting Taxes by $10 Billion as Pricy Drug Took Off

By David Kocieniewski
July 13, 2016

Gilead Sciences Inc.'s profit margin has soared and its tax rate has plummeted since the drugmaker introduced its controversial $1,000-a-day medication for hepatitis C, according to a report by an advocacy group that accuses the company of using accounting gimmicks to stash billions in earnings in tax havens offshore.

By moving some of its intellectual property to Ireland, Gilead was able to employ a common strategy that cut its U.S. tax bill by $10 billion since 2013, according to Americans for Tax Fairness, a left-leaning think tank. Two-thirds of Gilead's sales of the breakthrough hepatitis C drug Sovaldi are in the U.S., but the Foster City, California-based company books only about 37 percent of its profits domestically and assigns the rest to places with lower or no taxes, according to ATF's report. Gilead's avoidance of U.S. federal taxes was particularly galling, the report says, because federal research grants helped lead to Sovaldi's development.

Gilead Sciences has to be galling to Pfizer CEO Ian Read. While Read had his own tax inversion plans deep-sixed by U.S. Treasury rules changes this year, Gilead has managed to cut its U.S. tax bill dramatically even as its U.S. profits soared.

That is the indication of a report released today from Americans for Tax Fairness, a group largely supported by labor. It shows that by moving the intellectual assets for hep C cure Sovaldi to Ireland, it was able to record $28.5 billion in profits overseas in 2015, a move that allowed it to avoid $9.7 billion in U.S. taxes it reported to the SEC, the report says.

Biospace: Gilead Used Legal Loopholes to Avoid Paying $10 Billion in Taxes Last Year

By Alex Keown
July 13, 2016

The company was able to avoid paying the taxes due to the ability to transfer key assets to Ireland and take advantage of lower tax rates, StatNews said. A report by the progressive advocacy organization Americans for Tax Fairness said Gilead avoided paying nearly $10 billion in taxes last year. The organization said Gilead is avoiding paying its "fair share" of taxes on revenues generated by drugs developed in part through tax dollars. The group said the patents held for Harvoni and Sovaldi, Gilead's two blockbuster hepatitis C drugs, have been shifted to subsidiaries in "tax havens" such as Ireland, where the company pays a much lower rate. However, Americans for Tax Fairness said the vast majority of the California-based company's profits off the two drugs were made in the United States.

The liberal advocacy group Americans for Tax Fairness, in its formal comments, called Treasury's proposal "a solid first step to limit the shifting by foreign parent multinationals of corporate profits from the United States to foreign countries through the use of deductible interest on debt. At the same time, we believe that there is much more that can and should be done to address earnings stripping through the use of deductible interest, royalties, rents, premiums and management fees. For example, Treasury should expand the bifurcation approach of the proposed regulations to limit the amount of an instrument that may be characterized as debt based on well-established metrics that are regularly used in the marketplace, such as interest expense to EBITDA [earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization]."

In all, the two bar associations sent about 350 pages worth of comments to the administration, though D.C. was a little harsher than their New York brethren.

In a press statement on Thursday, Frank Clemente, executive director of Americans for Tax Fairness, outlined "the math behind the Republican healthcare repeal plan: Subtract healthcare from 24 million people. Add $600 billion in tax giveaways, mostly for the wealthy and corporations. Multiply out-of-pocket costs for senior citizens by 5. Divide all Americans. This equation didn't work out the last time they tried it, and it still doesn't work today. That's why Republicans in Congress want to exempt themselves and their staffs from their own lousy plan while refusing to wait for the Congressional Budget Office to estimate its costs.”

Americans for Tax Fairness (ATF)—a coalition of hundreds of organizations including the AFL-CIO, the Leadership Conference on Human and Civil Rights, Main Street Alliance, National Council of La Raza, SEIU, and the Working Families Party—issued the statement in response to reporting last Thursday that the repeal plan would impose $200 billion in new taxes on middle-class workers by taxing their health benefits for the first time ever.

“House Republicans want to tax workers’ healthcare benefits rather than continue to require the wealthiest Americans and big healthcare corporations to help finance health care for 20 million people now getting covered under the ACA. If true, the GOP healthcare repeal plan means the rich will get richer, millions will lose their healthcare, and workers will pick up the tab,” said ATF executive director Frank Clemente.

July 1, 2016

Marchers in this year's 4th of July parades in small towns across America will pass a variety of Main Street businesses: barber shops, restaurants, computer repair services. What all these small businesses have in common is that none of them use unpatriotic offshore tax dodges to avoid paying their fair share of U.S. taxes. Unfortunately, the same can't be said for America's multinational corporations. Huge U.S. firms are avoiding almost $700 billion in U.S. taxes on $2.4 trillion in profits they hold overseas, according to a study by Citizens for Tax Justice. This massive, ongoing tax dodge hurts American families, small businesses and hometown communities in several ways at once.

First, it's just not fair. Why should working Americans pay all their taxes every year, while big corporations don't? The only winners from this tax avoidance scheme are corporate CEOs and wealthy shareholders, whose payouts are inflated with the taxes not paid. (Oh, and the lobbyists who swarm Capitol Hill convincing Congress to open the tax-dodging loopholes in the first place.) Those tax-dodge bonanzas further widen our nation's already yawning income and wealth gaps.

Daily Messenger: Guest essay: Top 3 reasons Trump must release his tax returns \(Buffalo, NY\)

By Frank Clemente

April 11, 2017

President Donald Trump claims ordinary people “don’t care at all” that he’s the first chief executive in more than 40 years not to release his tax returns. But a January Washington Post-ABC News poll found three quarters — 74 percent — of Americans say Trump should release his tax returns. That includes a majority — 53 percent — of Republicans.

A White House petition demanding Trump release his tax returns broke a record for signatures within six days of being posted. It has since collected more than one million signatures.

This broad-based public demand makes sense. There are at least three important questions that can be answered only by the release of Trump’s tax returns

First, does Trump contribute any taxes to the nation he leads? We already know that he paid zero, or close to zero, federal income taxes in at least five of the past 40 years. We also know that he declared a nearly $1 billion loss in the 1990s that could have wiped out all his federal income tax obligations for up to 18 years. He’s proudly declared that not paying taxes “makes me smart.”

Republican plans to repeal the Affordable Care Act and the taxes that pay for it would save rich taxpayers like me a lot of money. But it would also cause 24 million Americans to lose their health insurance. That's not a tradeoff I want to make—and no one else should, either.

Long before the ACA required larger employers to offer our workers coverage or pay a penalty, I was already covering my employees. I could have saved millions of dollars over the years if I had left them uninsured.

But I believe health care is a basic human right.

Deseret News: Op-ed: GOP Obamacare 'replacement' offered wealthy tax cuts, not worker health care \(Salt Lake City, UT\)

By Jonathan Ruga

March 28, 2017

Written and placed by ATF syndicated by American Forum.

The House Republicans' so-called "replacement" of the Affordable Care Act (ACA) was a huge tax giveaway to the rich and corporations that threatens the health insurance of 24 million low and moderate-income Americans. Even though I'm one of the fortunate few who stood to gain, I was against the plan because I knew my grandmother wouldn't approve.

She's the one who taught me we're all supposed to look out for each other. That's why the company I co-founded in 1986 provides health insurance for our employees, even though the cost is substantial and continues to increase.

The ACA levies taxes on wealthy households and health care companies to help fund health insurance for working families who otherwise couldn't afford it. The GOP plan would have reversed that process, taking away health care from those who need it most to fund $600 billion in tax breaks that mostly benefit those who really don't need it.

Red Flag: Trump's plan to make the rich even richer (Australia)

By Nicole Colson

May 8, 2017

Or there's the fact that Trump's plan would create a so-called pass-through tax cut for business income that is currently taxed at the business owners' individual income tax rates rather than the corporate rate. Under Trump's plan, the tax rate for this wealth would drop to 15 percent. (Americans for Tax Fairness notes that Trump himself has some 500 pass-through arrangements.)

Daily Times: America reaps few benefits from Trump's tax-cut proposal (Pakistan)

By Christopher Walden
May 8, 2017

"Yesterday, we learned President Trump wants to slash the corporate tax rate, even though corporations already dodge most of their tax responsibilities while making record profits," Frank Clemente, executive director of the liberal Americans for Tax Fairness, told the New York Times.

"Today, we find out it's even worse. In trying to slash taxes for 'pass through' business entities, Trump is seeking to dramatically reduce his own tax bill." The idea advanced by Trump that the tax rate for all small proprietorships should fall to 15 percent caught some observers by surprise. Such small businesses where the individual pays taxes on business profits on their individual taxes are treated as pass throughs for state and federal tax purposes, but also include many professionals and financial firms-including real estate developers.

By Dominic Rushe, Ben Jacobs & Sabrina Siddiqui
April 27, 2017

But on the campaign trail, he also consistently pledged to cut the US's $19tn deficit "big-league" and "very quickly". A 20-percentage-point cut to corporate tax rates alone would add $2.4tn to the national debt, according to the nonpartisan pressure group Americans for Tax Fairness. Frank Clemente, executive director, called the proposal a "reckless" plan "for massive tax giveaways to corporations, the wealthy, and his own family" in return for adding trillions of dollars to the national debt.

"So, how would Trump's White House make up the shortfall? By drastic cuts to essential services and lowering the standard of living for regular American families. Unacceptable," said Clemente. "The White House line that 'tax cuts will pay for themselves' is a lie that has been debunked repeatedly, including by the conservative Tax Foundation. We will fight this tax plan tooth and nail, and we'll be joined by Americans of all political stripes in doing so."

By Tamar Kahn

July 20, 2016

The US-based pharmaceutical company moved some of its assets to Ireland in order to shift some US drug sales revenue offshore to benefit from lower tax rates, according to a report by Americans for Tax Fairness published last week.

By not repatriating its foreign profits, Gilead avoided nearly $10bn in taxes, the group said.

International Radio: 'It's Basically a Triple Theft of the American Public'

July 19, 2017

Gilead Sciences, a U.S. pharmaceutical company that makes hepatitis C medicine, was able to avoid almost $10 billion in taxes by the end of 2015 by shifting profits to offshore tax havens. The report says that Gilead was able to take advantage of legal loopholes in tax laws by moving certain key assets to Ireland. Gilead is not the only company that used tax loopholes in addition to setting outrageous prices.

They linked up with the lead author of the report and Americans for Tax Fairness Policy Consultant-William Rice.
